Dear Mr. Armour:

I am sending your letter on to the heads of drafting and surveying to see whether there is a position. I rather think that there are so many applying that they have likely all their positions arranged for already. With kind regards,

I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

My dear Doctor Falconer:

Enclosed please find a copy of a letter written to-day to the Honorable the Minister of Militia & Defence. Would you be good enough to forward him at the earliest possible date the names in full of the 30 men referred to in the letter who will receive their medical degree from the University of Toronto prior to their leaving for the front.

Your prompt attention will greatly oblige.

Dear Mr. Armour:

I have secured from Dr. Ryerson the list of twenty-four men, which I have sent on to General Hughes. The others have not yet received permission from their parents, or for some other reason, have not named in their names, but I have told General Hughes that I expect to send a supplementary list. Probably I shall see him myself in Ottawa on Saturday.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

M. N. Armour, Esq.,

Toronto.

Dear Mr. Armour:

Last Saturday I went to Ottawa and had a long conversation with the Minister and his staff concerning various military affairs; among these was the granting of the lieutenancy to the medical dressers. I found, however, that they were strongly opposed to it, particularly the General's advisers, and the Minister himself, although he was friendly, felt that it would be subversive to discipline. They informed me that the other Universities had not made such requests, although some of their students are going in a similar capacity. They said, however, that they would forward the names of these men to the War Office, and undoubtedly the fact that they are serving in the ranks would help to get their commissions in the army. I have sent the General's letter to Dean Clarke. It seems to me that it is impossible to do anything else in the matter.

Yours sincerely,

President.

R. A. Falconer, Esq., C.M.G., LL.D.,
Pres., University of Toronto,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Doctor Falconer:-

Captain Stanley Kerr, who has been writing his examinations for the degree of LL.B., is unable to write off his final papers this year as he has enlisted for active service and is now in training in camp at the Exhibition Grounds. He wrote off the first part of his examinations successfully last year.

Would it not be possible, under the circumstances, to grant him his degree of LL.B. He will be leaving for active service any day now, and I am sure he would appreciate it very much if his University would allow him his degree.

Yours faithfully,

Eric N. Armour.

Dear Mr. Armour:

I have spoken to the Registrar about Captain Stanley Kerr who is unable to write off his final papers for I.L.E. this year on account of his having been enlisted for active service. The Registrar tells me that he has already sent his name to the Committee along with others, and I have no doubt that the rule will apply for him as for others allowing exemption for those who are on active service.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.
